By United Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The first graphic details of the sinking and burning of the Voltorno in mid-ocean last Thursday night were received at the North German Lloyd steamship office this morning when a wireless message arrived from Captain Kurtuerst of the Groszner Kurgtuerst, which is off Nantucket lightship with 103 of the rescued on board. The message came by way of Cape Race.

Captain Kurtuerst says that calls for help were received about 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon and upon approaching the Voltorno found it to be burned almost to the water's edge. A heavy explosion in the bow followed. Eleven steamers were on hand but all were unable to take off any of the passengers because of the heavy north-west gale and the high sea. Two boats of the Groszner Kurgtuerst were on the water from 9 P. M. until 3:15 A. M. picking up 32 at night and 63 after dawn.

The Voltorno, built in 1905, was owned by the Kurtuerst family, the second officer, one engineer and 14 of the crew.

With the message was a list of names of those on board the Groszner Kurgtuerst, which included Second Officer Edward Lloyd and Third Officer Walter Longfellow. The list also included the names of the passengers, including Mrs. J. M. Schmitt, one sailor, seven women, three girls, 16 of the crew and a like number of the steerage.

The posting of the list of rescued was awaited by a long string of relatives and friends of passengers known to have sailed on the Voltorno and there were cries of delight and moans of sorrow in a hall of longers as the list was read and a loved one was saved or among those missing.

FISHGARD, Oct. 12.—The Commander Carman arrived here today with the first of the Voltorno survivors on board.

State Senator W. L. Crow, now state chairman of the Republican party in Pennsylvania, delivered the keynote speech before the meeting of the Republican Central Committee in Uniontown on Saturday which unanimously elected Register of Wills Charles O. Schreyer as its chairman. The committee also elected a number of its members and prospects of regaining supremacy in the county and state was expressed at the meeting. It was the most satisfactory meeting of the committee that has been held in recent years.

Enthusiasm over approaching success at the polls and prospects of regaining supremacy in the county and state was expressed at the meeting. It was the most satisfactory meeting of the committee that has been held in recent years.

State Chairman Crow had three propositions before the committeemen pointing out the things that must be accomplished. These are, he said, the elimination of strife, the restoration of a condition of brotherly love and good fellowship, and the election of a Republican ticket as the result of united effort.

He declared that there is no denying the fact that the Republican party is not, or at least has not been in a flourishing condition, and to this is due the presence of a Democrat in the White House, and that party's control of both the Senate and House of Representatives. Republican discord, he declared, was alone responsible for the enactment of a Democratic tariff bill.

Other speakers who spoke upon similar lines were L. B. Brownfield, A. E. Jones and H. George May. The meeting was opened by Attorney John Dugan, Jr., secretary of the committee and acting chairman since the death of Ash P. Williams. He was tendered a vote of thanks for his efficient services.

AUTO-TRUCK BLOWN UPTwo Men Have Narrow Escape When Gasoline Lets Go.

MOUNT PLEASANT, Oct. 12.—Lewis Snyder and Howard Mench had a narrow escape from death on Saturday noon when the automobile which Snyder was driving burned up. Coming down the Stauffer hill between Hecla and Hubert's School House the brakes would not work and getting out to find the trouble, they lifted the footboard and flames leaped into the air. At this time not hardly two minutes from the time they got out of the car the second gallon of gasoline exploded and shot the flames about forty feet in the air. They did not have time to shut the engine off, and the burning car started toward a barnyard. Mench gathered a rail up from the roadside and threw it in front of the car stopping it.

The men came toward the car and several men who were working on the Hecla houses saw the car had been on fire for at least a mile before Snyder and Mench discovered it, as they had seen the flames blow out behind the truck. Mr. Snyder stated that he did not know what caused the fire unless it burst fire. The car is a total loss. This is the second car Charles Grant has lost inside of two years. The other was struck by a train at Edell when Lawrence Shupe was killed and Lawrence Shupe was badly injured.

Connellsville Fatally
Hurt by Fall.*AN ACCIDENT ON MAIN STREET*Woman and Baby Thrown from a Wagon When Axel Breaks, but are Not Seriously Injured; Stewart Still, well Is Hurt When He Falls.

As the result of a series of mishaps, one woman died from her injuries, a mother and babe were painfully hurt and a man was knocked unconscious.

Injuries suffered last Thursday when she fell down the cellar steps at her home at South Connellsville resulted in the death of Mrs. Stewart Durbin Saturday afternoon. She fell about eight feet to a cement floor. Several ribs were fractured. Mrs. Durbin was 71 years old and had been in poor health for some time, but was able to be about. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Rev. W. C. Conley, pastor of the South Connellsville Evangelical Church, officiated.

Mrs. Durbin was born in Connellsville and spent all her life here. She was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George Trump. In addition to her husband she is survived by the following children: George, William, Mrs. James Jaynes, Mrs. J. M. Tressler, all of South Connellsville; Mrs. Oliver Schreyer, Mrs. J. M. Goffman and Joseph Durbin of Woodlawn, Pa.; Burt Durbin of Morgantown; two sisters, Mrs. James May and Mrs. Joseph Hattner and his six brothers, James, John, George, Hiram, David and Louis Trump, all of South Connellsville. She had four children and nine great grandchildren.

Mrs. Durbin's death, wife of the manager of the foreign department of the First National Bank, and her baby, were thrown out of a wagon on Saturday night when the axle on the left front wheel broke, precipitating them into the street. Mrs. Durbin was painfully bruised and her left leg was badly sprained. The baby was injured except for a bruised hip, caused by striking her mouth against the curb. Blood streaming from this wound caused the impression that she was seriously injured.

Mrs. Durbin, her baby and her father were on their way to their church just outside of town and were passing the Smith House when the axle snapped and the wheel came off. The sudden pitching to one side threw them both out. The woman kept her arms about the child in the fall and thus sustained the brunt of the shock when they struck the ground. The baby, however, was knocked from her grasp and rolled forward on her face.

Dr. E. L. Edle dressed their injuries temporarily and they were soon able to continue their journey. A quantity of ice contained in a box in the wagon was strewn along the street. The wagon remained on the street all day Sunday and had not been removed up to noon today.

Stewart Stillwell was taken ill at the Hotel Royal about 7 o'clock this morning and fell to the tiled floor unconscious. He was taken to his home where it was found that he was not injured beyond a cut in the head sustained in the fall.

Infant Daughter Dies.
Ethel J. Bailey, the two-month-old daughter of Mr. H. and Martha Bailey, died this morning at the Bailey house at Davidson.

Until a short time ago, scarcely one person in a thousand had ever tasted a really good soda cracker—as it came fresh and crisp from the oven.

Now everybody can know and enjoy the crisp goodness of fresh baked soda crackers without going to the baker's oven.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

SLICE PROCK FOR TEN-YEAR-OLD.

In these days of common-sense, everything for children simplicity that is ever synonymous with style, is the key-note. This seems more easily attained since the advent of narrow skirts and straight lines. Many of the newest fashions are of one-piece, banding straight and simple, as shown in the sketch still clinging to the fashion, but with a little trimming, it is possible. This frock was of deep red serge with long wide-line banding on the left and short skirt. A narrow band of embroidery outlined a narrow yoke of self-tone tucked skirt.

The class will continue throughout the winter months and students will be enrolled as students in the University Extension Department of the University of Pittsburgh. BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism, and Serious Diseases Follow.

There are other symptoms, such as pain in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and worn-out feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous. For the slightest kidney derangement, if neglected may develop into the deadly Bright's disease, dropsy or diabetes.

It is not only dangerous but needful for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for Croxone promptly and safely cures such ailments. There is no more effective remedy for kidney, bladder troubles and rheumatism, than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and filters, cleans out the clogged, poisonous, neutralized and discolored, and causes those terrible rheumatic pains and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders.

Will find Croxone different from other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it without results. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it should fail in a single case—Adv.

J. P. BRENNEN IS HOST TO COKE MEN AT SUMMIT HOTEL

President of Big Independent Company Entertains 60 of His Friends.

THEY DO NOT TALK SHOP

Not a Gary Dinner, Though the Menu Would Compare Favorably; M. M. Cochran Protests Against Currency and G. E. Titlow Boasts Road Bonds

John P. Brennan entertained over 60 of his friends at dinner Saturday afternoon at the Summit hotel, on the National Pike above Uniontown. It was naturally a gathering composed largely of Connellsville coke operators, but they didn't talk shop. It was not a Gary dinner, though the menu would compare favorably. Coke prices were not mentioned. The chief topic of discussion was John Brennan.

James R. Gray acted as toastmaster and was happy in his allusions. The speaking was strictly in a happy mood. The speakers, like Julius Shipley, "made it up as they went along." With congratulations and compliments ran reminiscences and merry quips that hastened the afternoon to a close and hush descended to the blustering weather without. In but two instances was this rule departed from.

M. M. Cochran, lawyer, banker and coke manufacturer, who made the principal address, voiced an earnest protest against the proposed currency bill, and George E. Titlow, but not less of the speakers, could not refrain from hurling a few sledge-hammer arguments in favor of the $50,000,000 gold bonds issue. If his ringing words did not reverberate through the distant townships it was the fault of the heavy weather. After the host responded modestly and feelingly to his introduction remarks were extracted from M. M. Cochran, L. W. Fork, Harry Whyle, W. A. Stone, W. W. Parrish, H. P. Snyder, John O'Donnell, P. T. Truesdale, L. L. Whited, J. B. Topham and George F. Titlow.

John P. Brennan is the president of the Thompson-Connellsville Coke Company, and prominent in the ranks of the merchant coke operators because of his ability and experience. He was brought up with the coke business. He came to the Connellsville region about 1880. He has been a resident here ever since and has been engaged in the coke business almost continuously. For many years prior to his absorption by the J. P. Lick Coke Company he was General Superintendent of the McClure Coke Company, the second largest operating company in the region at that time. The first important developments in the coke business in this region were made by Mr. Brennan representing the Federal Steel Company. These coke properties subsequently went to the J. P. Lick Coke Company after the formation of the United States Steel Corporation.

The guests were as follows: From Uniontown, J. W. Stone, Charles E. Lombard, L. W. Fogg, P. T. Truesdale, W. L. Byers, J. W. Abraham, R. W. Austin, A. P. Austin, M. M. Cochran, James R. Gray, George H. Bortz, R. M. Fry, James F. Feather, George E. Titlow, James H. Ross, G. S. Litch, M. H. Husted, J. B. Husted, J. B. Henderson, W. L. Gilmore, J. N. Gilmore, G. B. Brownfield, from Connellsville, R. Marietta, Cyrus Leonard, M. P. Pickard, W. F. Soleson, W. W. Smith, H. P. Snyder, from Pittsburgh, W. G. Gifford, John H. Campbell, J. P. Kennedy and John H. Kennedy, J. C. Scottsdale, W. L. Kelley, P. E. Waddell and William J. Brennan, Jr., from Brownsville, L. A. Lombard, H. B. Pierce, R. L. Taylor, from Dawson, H. McDermott, R. D. Henry and William H. Husted, from Greensburg, C. J. Kline and W. A. Wilson, from Mount Pleasant, John Husted, from McAllegherstown, James H. Hoover, from New Salem, Charles S. Hemphill, from Iverson, Frank H. Byrne, J. H. Hill, Thomas McCaffrey, from New York, A. D. Gilroy.

Is Mrs. Eaton Guilty of Murder? Here are Principals In Great Poison Trial, Starting October 14

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Oct. 13.—The case of Mrs. Eaton guilty of murder? Did she poison her husband, the late Rear Admiral Joseph Aiken, to death at their home at Ashipp, Mass., on March 8 last? While part did her two pretty daughters of a previous marriage play in the family tragedy? These and other interesting questions will be answered at the trial of Mrs. Eaton on a charge of slaying her husband, which starts here on Tuesday. The case last March was a country wide sensation because of the high standing of the rear admiral. The trial excites equal interest now. Chief Justice Aiken presides, and Prosecutor Albert Barker conducts the case against the widow. One of the most important witnesses is Miss Dorothy Ainsworth, the pretty 17-year-old daughter of Mrs. Eaton.

"SMALL THE PEOPLE RULE?"

The Republican County Committee met on Saturday last and organized for the coming year by electing as its Chairman, Charles O. Schroyer, Register of Wills. The new chairman has had considerable experience in Fayette county politics. His personal reputation is above reproach, his ability beyond question, his loyalty without suspicion. The committee chose wisely.

It was neither a hot-air convention nor a ratification meeting. The political situation was looked squarely in the face. The fact that the party has recently been defeated and demoralized by a great factional split between national leaders was fully recognized. The handling of the breach as far as possible in Fayette county was the task set before the chairman and the committee, and both indicated quite plainly that they realized the fact and accepted the duty.

The Republican disruption in Fayette county is not thought to be serious. There are indications that the rank and file of the voters are already wondering whether Democratic policies will not prove as costly to the country and to themselves individually, and whether after all the personal ambitions of political leaders concern them so much as their personal welfare.

The past cannot be recalled and regrets are useless. The duty of the party is to get together and as soon as possible repair the error which has been made. That duty is becoming more and more apparent to the common people, and they can probably be depended upon to attend to it without the advice and instructions of a mushroom boss springing up overnight who would continue to divide the Republican party only for the purpose of getting momentarily in the light of publicity, much as Nero did when Rome burned.

There can be no other explanation. What would Progressives have? What do they wish? Is it place and power? How can they get either without the vote of a united party?

It is evident that the first practical step is to get together and how will this be done and how will the bosses, against which so much Progressive protest has been heard, be eliminated? The answer is simple. By the Republicans.

The machinery has already been provided. The uniform primary leaves the choice of this matter entirely in the hands of the rank and file of the party. It will be remembered that Senator Penrose was overturned at the primary in April, 1912, and seems to have come back in November, 1913, but the Republican voters will express their sentiments again in April, 1914. They will also under recent legislation specifically say whether they want Senator Penrose continued in his present position.

Loss rule has been eliminated from the Republican party, and the rule of the People set up in its place. That is Progressive doctrine and Progressive demand. Now that it has been met, Progressives should be ready to meet it. What shall we think of professed Progressive leaders who instead of embracing now renounce the familiar slogan, "Shall the People Rule?"

Will we not have to conclude that they are Pharisees and Hypocrites?

UNIONTOWN'S NEW PAPER.

The Daily Record, Uniontown's new morning paper, made its appearance today. It consists of eight pages of seven columns each. It is neat typographically and sparsely editorialized. It carries a large line of display advertising and starts out with every outward indication of abundant success. The Courier welcomes it to the bosom of the happy family of Fayette county journalists and hopes it will be at least as polite as the rest of us.

The Record is accused of having a mission, though reports differ as to its character. The Record itself settles the matter by telling us that it "will support independently the principles of the Progressive party, and hopes to be the potential factor in carrying Fayette county and Pennsylvania in 1914 for the local and state candidates representing the Progressive party."

The Record does not say it will fill a long-felt want, possibly because of the recent birth of the Progressive party, but it says everything else that a new paper is expected to say, and says it well.

It seems to be the general opinion that The Record will help to enliven Fayette county journalism.

The Connells News intimates that Senator Crow has a slate for county offices in 1915. It is a little early for such slates, and we doubt very much whether a sagacious leader like Senator Crow has a slate at this time. It may be observed in this connection that anybody can have a slate, but it is not worth much unless it is approved by the Republican voters at the primary polls. Under our new election system the people nominate as well as elect candidates. The people do rule.

Columbus Day promises to be a great success in Conneltsville, but the big show will be in the evening. Wait for it.

The Brotherhood celebration won't be a patch on the reception Columbus is getting in Conneltsville today. It's right that it should be so. Columbus came first.

Says the Uniontown Herald: "Plain Bill Crow, plain State Chairman, delivered himself of a plain line of talk before the County Committee Saturday on the plain duty of every Republican. There are no fillies on Bill. He's a plain proposition every way you take him."

Emmy Pankhurst seems to be getting his money as well as a big reputation. She ought to form a combination with Billy Sunday. In those Progressive times, it pays to be a Reformer.

The Style Show was a success and will probably be played in the business calendar of Conneltsville along with Hargain Day.

The Austrian courts hold that a husband is the only relative who has the right to sue for damages for his wife's death. This places a very low estimate on the husband's affection and the wife's companionship.

Modern building methods always consider safety first, and when safety is not first safety wants to know why.

If the frequent interferences with the natural gas mains on the part of other interests continue when winter weather comes, the gas company should ask the Public Service Commission to enjoin them in the name of humanity.

Every man who staggers is not intoxicated.

It was thought that the car efficiency of the Conneltsville coke trade had reached its highest point, but it seems that the district freight agents have a hunch that it can be made even more efficient by the cordial cooperation of all interests.

The Dawson motorcycleist who collided with a buggy in the hospital, but where is the buggy?

Somerset's county detective is a mighty man. Single handed and alone he captured a whole band of rascals. They read his hand while he told their fortune.

The Somerset county panther is either a circus truant or the creature of vivid imagination. The native panther has been extinct for many years. The only wild animal "monet the hills of Somerset is the dory untamed Bull Moose and it is reported to be getting scarce.

Fayette continues to hold its position as the banner Sunday school county in the state.

The West Penn will be under deputy management this week. All the officials are attending a trolley convention at Atlantic City. The deputies will doubtless keep the system on its trolley while the delegates hold down the Board Walk.

The Conneltsville Civic League is preparing to go into bankruptcy. The chief asset of the organization was lost and that doesn't liquidate its debts.

The application of the railroads for an increase in freight rates will soon be heard by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission has appointed able counsel to represent the shippers and the hearing will be anything but ex parte. However, if the railroads have justice on their side a few lawyers more or less will not matter.

The claim of Conneltsville as a coke center has been questioned, but its claim to be the center of manufacture of mining and coking equipment will not be questioned by those who are familiar with its industries.

Somerset county has organized in favor of the $50,000,000 Good Roads bond issue. Somerset is Progressive as well as Bull Moose.

If it is true, as reported, that Huerta has proclaimed himself dictator of Mexico and has either imprisoned or murdered most of the members of the National Assembly he has justified his refusal of the Wilson administration to recognize him as the head of the Mexican government and is hastening his downfall.

The Arctic Circle is developing into a continent. If the ice keeps moving out the country may become a summer resort some day.

The Panama country continues to shake and the canal builders to wonder what they will have to contend with next.

The latest ocean disaster indicates that rescue work is still weak in the matter of conveying passengers from vessels during high seas.

Emmy Pankhurst may be departed on her arrival here, not because she is a schismatic, but because she is a latent woman. In fact a criminal, and a persistent one at that.

THE COW.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Swash."

Of all the animals designed by nature the cow is one of the most successful.

She is a neat, durable animal of moderate size, and fitted with a large number of very ingenious conveniences. In fact the evidences are that the cow was constructed a long time after man was invented, and that she embodies the result of much more experience.

The cow is toothless, and uses instead a cleverly designed cloven hoof, which is not afflicted with corns or bunions. Because of the fact that she does not need shoes the cow is able to afford four feet. With these she can travel twice as fast as an ordinary man, and can also eat at an angle of 50 degrees on a slippery hillside with perfect comfort.

The cow has no upper teeth. Those molars who have spent their nights carrying a double set of insurance teeth around a bedroom and their days earning money enough to have their teeth yanked out and replaced, have cause to envy the cow with great fear.

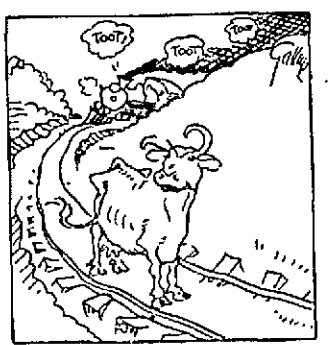

This cow also has four stomachs. This enables her to have indigestion in one stomach and yet limp along very nicely on three cylinders through a 135 course dinner. Because of her four stomachs the cow is able to eat all day and far into the night.

The cow is also able to swallow her food in bunches and to chew it afterward. It is disgusting to think that nature has wasted this magnificent arrangement on a cow, while thousands of American business men are turning yellow and sweating up with dyspepsia for want of it.

The cow is also able to carry her milk supply through the hottest summer without ice. And yet in spite of all these improvements and facilities the cow is not rich.

In fact she hasn't a cent to her name. Having the fact that she is worth 25 cents a pound when converted into porthouse steaks, dried beef and soup bones, she is a bankrupt, and has to depend for food all winter upon the efforts of a hired man with a pitch fork.

"She knows that whatever the engine does to her will increase her value from 25 cents to $1.50 a pound."

The cow is like too many humans. She is magnificently equipped for life, but she declines to worry. Even when a cow strays upon a railroad track and faces a tooting locomotive she maintains her placid disposition and her sweetness of temper.

But perhaps this is because she knows that whatever the engine does to her will increase her value from 25 cents to $1.50 a pound.

"As long as you are in this mood, I can't give you anything but a very good day," he said, and went toward the door. But when he had almost reached it he turned.

"I will say this," he said, "you have known for three days that Mr. Theoburn was going to have a supper to-night, and you didn't let me know. You must have known his purpose."

I guess I was as surprised as she was. I'd never suspected she knew. She looked at him over her shoulder.

"Why shouldn't he have a supper?" she demanded angrily. "I'm starving—we're all starving for decent food. I'm kept here against my will. Why shouldn't I have one respectable meal? You with your wretched stewed fruits and whole-wheat breads! Ugh!"

"I'm sorry, Theoburn's men, of course, he to make the guests disappointed, so they will leave."

"Oh!" she said. She hadn't thought of that, and she flushed. "At least," she said, "you must give me credit for not trying to spoil Dick and Dolly's chance here."

"We are going to allow the party to go on," he said, still and uncompromising. It would have been better if he'd accepted her bit of apology.

"How kind of you! I dare say he would have it, anyhow." She was sarcastic again.

"Probably. And you will see?"

"Certainly."

"Even when the result?"

"Oh, don't preach!" she said, putting her hands to her ears. "If you and Minnie want to preach, why don't you preach at each other? Minnie talks 'love, love, love.' And you preach health and morality. You drive me crazy with your 'love, love, love.'"

"Suppose," she said with a gleam in her eyes, "suppose I preach 'love, love, love!'"

She put her fingers in her ears again. "Say it to Minnie," she cried, and turned her back to him.

"Very well," he said. "Minnie, Miss Jennings refuses to listen, and there are some things I must say. Once again I am going to register a protest against her throwing herself away in a loveless marriage. I feel strongly on the subject, Minnie."

She half turned, as if to interrupt. Then she thought better of it and let her fingers in her ears, her face flushed. But he had learned what he hoped—that she could hear him.

"You ask me why I feel so strongly, Minnie, and you are right to ask. Under ordinary circumstances, Minnie, any remark of mine on the subject would be ridiculous impertinence."

He stopped and eyed her back, but she did not move.

"It is impertinence under any circumstances, but consider the provocation. I see a young, beautiful and sensitive girl, marrying, frankly without love, a man whom I know to be unworthy, and you ask me to stand aside and shut my mouth!"

"Are you still preaching?" she asked coldly over her shoulder. "It must be a long sermon."

And then, knowing he had only a moment more, his voice changed and became deep and earnest. His hands, that were clutching a chair-back, took a stronger hold, so that the ends of the nails were white.

"You see, Minnie," he said, turning a little pale. "I love Miss Jennings myself. You have known it a long time, for you love her, too. It has come to the point that I measure the day by the hours when I can see her. She doesn't care for me; sometimes I think she hates me. I've paused here, but Miss Patty didn't move. I haven't anything to offer a woman except a man's life and the kind of love that a man could be proud of. I have no more."

Miss Patty suddenly took her fingers from her ears and turned around. She was flushed and shaken, but she looked past him without blinking an eyelash to me.

"Dear me," she said, "the sermon must have been exciting. Minnie! You are quite trembly!"

And with that she picked up her muff and went out, with not a glance at him.

He looked at me.

"Well," he said, "that's over. She's angry, Minnie, and she'll never forgive me."

"Shut!" I snapped. "I noticed she waited to hear it all, and no real woman ever hated a man for saying he loved her."

CHAPTER XV.

I carried out the supper to the shelter-house as usual that night, but I might have saved myself the trouble. Mrs. Dick was sitting on a box, with her hair in puffs and the folding card table before her, and Mr. Dick was uncorking a bottle of champagne with a nail. There were two or three queer-looking cases open on the table.

Mrs. Dick looked at my basket and turned up her nose.

"Put it anywhere, Minnie," she said loftily. "I dare say it doesn't contain anything reckless."

"Cold ham and egg salad," I said, setting it down with a slam. "Stewed prunes and boiled rice for dessert. If those cases taste as they smell, you'd better keep the basket to fall back on. Where'd you get that?"

Mr. Dick looked at me over the bottle and winked.

"In the next room," he said, "lead to the proper temperature, paid for by somebody else, and coming after a two weeks' drought! Minnie, there isn't a shadow on my joy!"

"He'll miss it," I said. But Mr. Dick was pointing out three large tumblers full of the stuff, and he held one out to me.

"Minnie!" he exclaimed. "Haven't been out three times today, tapping his little cache? And didn't he bring out Moody and the senator and von Inwald this afternoon, and didn't they sit in the next room there from two to four, roaring songs and cracking bottles and jokes?"

"Beasts!" Mrs. Dick said savagely. "Two hours, and we haven't moved!"

"Come in and see!" Mr. Dick said, motioning to my glass. "Don't be afraid of it, Minnie; it's food and drink."

"I don't like it," I said, sipping at it. "I'd rather have the spring water."

"You'll have to cultivate a taste for it," he explained. "You'll like the second half better."

I got it down somehow and started for the door. Mr. Dick came after me with something that smelled fishy on the end of a fork.

"Better eat something," he suggested. "That was considerable champagne, Minnie."

"Stupid and nonsense," I said. "I was tired and it has reeked me. That's all, Mr. Dick."

"Sure."

"Certainly," I said with dignity. "I'm really tired, Mr. Dick. And happy—"

"Perhaps I'd better close the door," he said. "The light may be seen."

"You needn't close it until I've finished talking," I said. "I've done my best for you and yours, Mr. Dick. I hope you appreciate it. Night after night I've tramped out here through the snow, and lost sleep, and lied myself black in the face—you've no idea how I've had to lie, Mr. Dick."

Mrs. Dick called, "I'm dressing!"

"I made me mad."

"Exactly," I said, glaring at her through the snow, bringing you meals that you scorn—oh, yes, you scorn them. What did you do to the basket tonight? Look at it, lying there, neglected in a corner, with perfectly good ham and stewed fruit in it!"

All of a sudden I felt terrible about the way they had treated the basket, and I sat down on the steps and began to cry. I remember that, and Mr. Dick sitting down beside me and putting his arm around me and calling me "good old Minnie," and for heaven's sake not to cry so loud. But I was

REASONS FOR YOUR SUPPORT

Many Good Reasons Why the Pennsylvania Voter Should Vote for Good Roads.

Reasons why every voter should vote at the approaching election for building Pennsylvania's highway system are plentiful. Some of the most important should be borne in mind by every voter when he goes to the polls. Some of them are:

BECAUSE, there should be no politics in good roads. They benefit Republican, Democrat, Progressive, Socialist and Prohibitionist alike, and the benefit is not political, but commercial, industrial, educational, social and personal.

BECAUSE, the benefit of improved roads is not confined to any class or condition, but extends to all. Farmer, merchant, physician, lawyer, manufacturer, dweller in city or country, driver of horse or automobile.

BECAUSE, with the money available from a loan for State roads, the state will be able to give the townships greater aid under the Jones law and more money will be available for state aid roads, from the general revenues.

BECAUSE, the State of Pennsylvania levies no real estate tax, but receives its revenues from corporations, from commerce, from automobile registrations, and a variety of lesser sources.

BECAUSE, the constitutional amendment which will be voted for this year provides for a fund to build state highways in every county in the state, so that all will reap the benefit.

BECAUSE, unless the voters vote in favor of this amendment to the constitution, road building in Pennsylvania will be a slow proposition. There will be no money to build the State road system unless the people vote for it.

BECAUSE, regardless of who may be elected governor, or elected to any other office next year, highway construction should go on with regularity until every part of the state is supplied with the roads which the State Highway law provides and which are necessary to their welfare.

Reasons why every voter should vote for the constitutional amendment could be multiplied indefinitely; and any real reason why any one should vote against the bonds would be hard to find. Everybody wants the roads built during the lifetime of the present generation and built so they will last with proper maintenance, for all time. Part of them are already built and need repairs; some are in course of construction, and the money for building the others, in fairness to every section of the state, is what should be voted for now. By voting "yes" to the constitutional amendment you will VOTE RIGHT.

WORK FOR THE GOOD ROADS AMENDMENT

The necessity for continuing the construction of the highway system in Pennsylvania without interruption is a subject of state-wide import. Involved are the vast enhancement of farm values, the increases in returns from farm products, the creation of new and better markets, and the general betterment of social and commercial conditions.

The fact that a constitutional amendment allowing a bond issue of fifty million dollars is to be voted on at the general election in November, to build the Sprout system of State Highways, calls for the earnest work of every interest which has to do with the highways. The state system comprises 10,000 miles, about 2,000 miles of which are roads which have been well built, but which need repairs.

It must be remembered that since the original state aid road law was enacted the number of motor vehicles in the state has increased from less than 5,000 to over 55,000, and the revenues from registration and license will aggregate more than $300,000 this year and under the new law next year fully $1,200,000. The tremendous traffic thrown on the highways of the state has made high class construction necessary, and it has required a constant effort on the part of the authorities to build better and still better roads. The motorists through their organizations have done much for the improvement of the highways of Pennsylvania, and every other class of road users has profited by their work.

Wherever roads have been built, and especially through roads, in any

A little red shoe button discovered on the fire escape leads to the solving of the murder mystery in the new serial we are about to run—"The Red Button," by Will Irwin.

A story that's entirely different from the average detective tale

YOU will read it with intense interest to discover the murderer of Captain Hanska; with delight because the famous Rosalie Le Grange, ex-medium, is on the case; with great good humor because a lively group of men and women bustle through the story—a group full of animation and reality. Whatever you do, don't fail to read "The Red Button."

"I know right off what it meant," I said, clutching my aching head and tried to think. I was roused by hearing somebody say that Miss Jennings had no glass, and by steps nearing the pantry. I had just time to slip the bolt.

"Pantry's locked!" said a voice.

"That's Minnie!" somebody said.

"The girl's a nuisance."

"Hush!" Miss Jennings said. "She's probably in there now—taking down what we say and what we eat. Convinced us out of our own mouths."

I held my breath and the knob rattled. Then they found a glass for Miss Patty and forgot the pantry.

Under cover of the next burst of noise I tried the pantry window, but it was frozen shut. Nothing but a hammer would have loosened it. I began to dig at it with a wire hairpin, but I hadn't much hope.

The fun in the springhouse was getting fast and furious. Miss Summers was leaning against the pantry door and I judged that most of the men in the room were around her, as usual.

There was loud applause, and then Senator Biggs cleared his throat.

"Ladies and gentlemen, distinguished fellow guests," he began, "I suggest a toast to the autocrat of Hope Springs. It is the only blot on the occasion, that, owing to the exigencies of the occasion, he can not be with us. Securely fastened in his room, he is now sleeping the sleep that follows a stomach attuned to prunes, a mind attuned to rule."

"Eat, drink and be merry!" somebody said, "for tomorrow you die!"

There was a swish and rustle, as if a woman got up in a hurry.
